The Intelligencer.

WHEELING, NOVEMBER 30, 1893.

The Intelligencer's Thanks.

The Intelligencer gives thanks for the good friends it has and for all the good that has come to them;

For all the prosperity with which the land has been blessed, and for that comfort of conscience which comes from having had nothing to do with that change of administration which threatens the country's business and the welfare of the people;

For the encouraging uprising of the people against the policy of national destruction, and for the goodly prospect of the early overturning of that political organization which seeks to fasten on the people a discredited policy of national economy;

For the reasonable certainty that the next time the people go to the polls they will not repeat the capital blunder of 1892;

For the promise of many Democratic members of Congress to oppose the Wilson tariff bill and prevent its passage if possible.

CHAIRMAN WILSON may be gratified to know that he has stirred up the country.

To-day's Sport.

Wheeling's first big game of foot ball is to be played this afternoon on the fair grounds. There will be room enough for everybody, and those who so desire may have comfortable seats on the ground stand.

The dampness of the ground, if it be damp, will make no difference to spectators. As for the players, they like the ground a little soft. The INTELLIGENCER has seen forty thousand people watch a foot ball game through the rain and not five thousand of them under cover. Properly clad, the day need make no difference to those who look on.

There is every promise of a fine contest to-day. The players are in good trim and each team is determined to win. The receipts are for the city hospital, a good cause which needs support. The admission fee has been reduced to twenty-five cents, so that everybody can afford to go.

THE INTELLIGENCER hopes that to-day nobody may be reduced to eating "the battered old rooster he wore in his hat."

She Bought a Prince.

It seems only yesterday that Mrs. Bonanza Mackay bought for her daughter the Prince Colonna and his title. The title was what the Mackays wanted, for it is one of the oldest in Europe, but the tail had to go with the hide, and the prince had to be included in the bargain. He was in need of money and the Mackays were in sore distress for lack of a title.

Now there is about to be an application for divorce on the ground of the general profligacy of his highness. Very few of these trades come out well, but experience does not keep the ambitious from selling their daughters in the title market. Next!

PERHAPS Lil is once more on the Hawaiian throne, eating boiled missionary instead of roast turkey for her Thanksgiving dinner.

A Mistake Somewhere.

The free traders were going to make business in the woolen industry better by putting wool on the free list and reducing the tariff on manufacturers of wool.

Now comes the Nonantum mill in Newton, Massachusetts, and notifies its eight hundred employees that the passage of the Wilson bill will compel a reduction of wages.

Perhaps the Nonantum mill does not understand its business as well as Mr. Wilson and the other free traders do. If it isn't this way there are bad times ahead for the employees of that mill and others similarly situated.

MR. CLEVELAND will have turkey to-day, and so will every Democratic member of Congress. Some others who had it a year ago will have to go without to-day.

It has been thought better to present the glass house matter as two separate and distinct propositions, one for South Wheeling and one for East Wheeling. It is believed that the friendly rivalry between the two sections will stimulate both to greater efforts and produce better results. The objective point is to save Wheeling's glass industry.

STRANGE as it may seem, sugar producers don't enjoy the idea of being slaughtered by degrees—killed one eighth every year for eight years. They have an idea that they won't live long enough in the business to be present at the wind-up as provided in the Wilson bill. Nor does it console them any to reflect that they voted for the party that has sentenced them to death.

THE sultan of Johore turns out to be as rollicking a fellow as any English lord. The oriental mind is not altogether dull.

West Virginia Coal and the Democratic Party.

Elsewhere is republished a strong and striking editorial article from the Charleston Daily Gazette, organ of the Democracy of the southern end of the state, and very close to the Democratic governor of West Virginia.

The article tells "what it means," that is to say, what will be the effect of putting coal on the free list, as Mr. Wilson's committee proposes. Among other things the Gazette says it means "more want and suffering than we ever knew;" it means private life for Mr. Wilson; it means a Republican electoral vote from West Virginia in 1896 and an assurance of national Republican supremacy for many years to come.

The Gazette is right. The INTELLIGENCER will take great satisfaction in seeing West Virginia go Republican in 1896. But this will come to pass without the ruin of a great industry and all the things which go with that. We would prefer to see the defeat of the free coal proposition, leaving the Republican party to take its chance.

It is a serious thing to blow up an industry on which men depend to feed their wives and children. The Democratic Gazette says, "God save the party." THE INTELLIGENCER prays, let the industries of this country live.

If you have done nothing to cast a beam of sunshine into a home that lies under the shadow of want, make haste to do it before you sit down to your own fat turkey.

Free Trade Leader in the Senate.

There is some surprise because Mr. McPherson, of New Jersey, has been selected to champion the tariff bill in the senate. Mr. McPherson comes from a state that would be terribly hurt by the Wilson bill, and he has not been regarded as in favor of that line of policy.

It may be that Mr. McPherson has agreed to undertake the job because the recent election in New Jersey regulated in a Republican legislature, which will send a Republican to fill the seat now held by Mr. McPherson. He is no longer young and is not likely to come to the front again.

Easy to-day, boys. Kick the ball, not each other.

A Confident Boss.

Boss McKane, of Gravesend, who assaulted the writ-servers, took their writs from them and locked them up, has responsive readings in the Sunday school of which he is superintendent. The superintendent reads and the school responds. Last Sunday it happened that the superintendent boss read, "I will walk at liberty." Well, not if he falls into the hands of an honest jury. If everything goes well Boss McKane will before long be singing songs in Sing Sing.

The Brazilian rebel admiral goes to bed quite Mello.

When the natural gas leaves us for a few hours we proceed at once to be unhappy and to think that our lot is not a happy one.

Prescription for a better frame of mind—pity those who never have the comforts of the ideal fuel.

We have had surprisingly little trouble with our natural gas supply, and we have had a world of convenience out of it.

For this let us give thanks.

Earthquakes are to go cavorting all over this continent, it may be worth while to consider the probable fate of the skyscraper buildings and those who are housed in them. Earthquake countries do not aspire twenty stories high.

We feel for our Democratic friends who want the coal industry let alone. They are hitched to the wrong chariot. If they would save the coal industry in which so many of them are deeply interested, and on which so great a part of the country depends, they should be honest enough and bold enough to make common cause with all American industries. This is the way to win.

MUCH as this country is suffering, we Americans have much to be thankful for. We can be thankful for the better times we have had, and for the hope that when the people get the chance they will bring back those good times again.

BREAKFAST BUDGET.

"Chatts" is the pulverized rock from which the lead ore has been extracted in the dressing or concentrating process. In bulk it is more than ten times greater than the dressed mineral. A company has been organized to transport "chatts" from the St. Francois county (Mo.) lead mines and use it in connection with crushed granite in paying St. Louis.

There is at present every prospect of an exceptionally heavy sugar crop in Louisiana. Excellent yields are reported in every sugar district in the state, and unless some disaster occurs the total yield will be between 500,000,000 and 600,000,000 pounds.

Residents of Milwaukee are desirous of having a special alcove built to contain the books of native authors in the splendid public library building they are about to erect.

It is no uncommon sight to see a portly man chasing a hoop round and

PERSONAL POINTS.

Prince Krapotkin, the celebrated Russian exile, who makes his headquarters in London, looks the anarchist, every inch of him. He is tall and lathy, with deep-set eyes, bald head, and patriarchal whiskers and mustache, which flow in a gray, unkempt mass over his breast.

Lieut. David L. Brainard, Second United States Cavalry, is in Boston for a brief visit. Lieutenant Brainard was second in command of the Greely arctic expedition, and was a companion of Lieutenant Lockwood, since dead, when the highest point north ever reached by man was made.

Mary Anderson Navarro and her husband are at present in Geneva. Some Louisville people who met the actress there have written home that she is "as charming as ever and the personification of contentment."

Colonel North, of nitrate fame, is going to contest the constituency of West Leeds, now represented by Herbert J. Gladstone. Lord Randolph Churchill, it is said, has actively espoused Colonel North's cause.

Clarence S. Bement, of Philadelphia, has a collection of minerals which is second to only one in the world—that of the British museum. It is estimated to be worth fully half a million dollars.

Dr. Henry M. Field has written a new book of travel under the title of "The Barbary Coast." It describes of course a journey in Algiers, Tunis and Tripoli.

London has gone wild over a new pianist from Austria. His name is Weiss and his hair is longer than Padewski's.

A LITTLE NONSENSE.

Old Judge Poterby, a noted Texan, has been laid up for some time with the gout. His legs are swollen to an enormous size. He is very impatient, and his doctor, who is also a church member, rebuked him, saying: "You should be grateful to the Almighty for his kindness." "What kindness?" "His kindness in giving you only two legs to suffer with. Suppose you had as many legs as a centipede?"—Texas Siftings.

The lady had given the small boy an apple and he had said nothing in recognition. "What does a little boy say when he gets anything?" asked the lady inquisitively. He hesitated a moment. "Some little boys," he said, "says 'thank you,' some says 'much obliged,' and some just keeps thinking 'how much better an orange is than an apple.'"

Written for the Intelligencer.

THE OLD FARM LANE.

(A Thanksgiving Poem.)

BY M. CLARK HANSON.

Well, Jane, here comes our Kate and John; They said they'd come again.

When time for firing thunders came on. See! Drive up the lane.

Say, what's that bundle there that Kate has? "Oh, my dear, it's my new coat. For I must open wide the gate For baby down the lane."

Now dinner's over, come, draw near The fire and I'll explain My feelings, which were rather queer As you drove up the lane.

I thought about that April day John stopped in from the rain. How later on he took away Our baby down the lane.

Oh, what an empty home was ours That dreary day of parting. How I miss him, the very flowers Looked lonely down the lane.

But in a year what changes be. And where went two there now comes three A drive through the lane.

So let's give thanks. What's that you say? You've given the boy my name? Then I'll live on, though some near day They'll take me down the lane.

Then we will look, dear wife and I—Don't let us look in vain—To see you coming by and bye To us up heaven's lane.

It is strange that some people will suffer for years from rheumatism rather than try such an approved standard remedy as Ayer's Sarsaparilla; and that, too, in spite of the assurance that it has cured so many others who were similarly afflicted. Give it a trial.

THE TARIFF BILL.

Demoralization Promised.

Philadelphia Inquirer (Rep.).

Free coal may not injure the far south, but Pennsylvania, the Virginias, Maryland and other states will be seriously troubled. Some influential Democrats who desire to flood the market with the soft coal of Nova Scotia, which can be mined with cheap labor and brought to New England and even to Pennsylvania and New York by water, are going to make a good thing out of it, but a vast industry is menaced.

It is useless to attempt to point out the effect of the bill in minute details until the manufacturers who are directly affected can take their bearings and can make up their minds just what they can do. But in a general way the bill has every promise of demoralization about it.

Advaleorem Duties.

Chicago Inter-Ocean (Rep.).

But the unexpected has come to pass. Advaleorem are to be the rule. The French or British manufacturer will establish an agency in America through which all American wholesalers and jobbers must deal, for to import directly will be to buy at a higher price than that at which goods are consigned to the resident agent, and to buy at a higher price will be to pay a higher duty. Apart from the objection against advaleorem as productive of fraudulent valuation lies the plain fact that they are preventive of the free use of American capital.

A New Departure.

New York Tribune (Rep.).

Its most characteristic feature is the general substitution of advaleorem for specific duties. This is in contempt of the judgment of competent economists, including some eminent Democrats, and Secretary Manning, President Cleveland's first choice of the treasury, who strongly urged specific duties on the ground that by them only could fraud be effectually checked. But the extreme free trade theorists have always been anxious for advaleorem duties only, as if because these are most easily evaded and practically less efficacious.

Well, They Are Getting It.

New York Commercial Bulletin (Ind.).

In another column will be found a new form of tariff, as agreed upon up to the present moment by the house committee on ways and means. The departure from common usage in making the bill public before reporting it to the house may have arisen from a desire to get the benefit of public criticism before putting it in final form.

Thankful It's No Worse.

Chicago Mail (Ind. Rep.).

While the Wilson tariff bill will not open the doors of a shutdown factory, the people may thank their lucky stars that the threat of the National Democratic Convention was not carried into execution.

For Democracy's cowardice we sincerely thank heaven.

More Imports Less Consumption of Home Goods.

New York Times (Misc.).

As in many instances these reductions are considerable upon goods very largely used, they cannot but stimulate imports, and to the extent that they do so the revenue will be greater than the estimate of the committee. Exactly what this increase will be cannot be forecast, but it is sure to occur.

Employment Perhaps, Lower Wages Certain.

Philadelphia Times (Dem.).

Free raw materials, cheapened production, enlarged consumption, with wider markets—this is the only policy that can revive our manufactures and give employment to our workmen. This is the policy the people have demanded and that is now assured to them.

Can Meet It This Way.

New York Advertiser (Rep.).

Our people can meet foreign competition only by a reduction of wages to what will seem to be a starvation basis. Our workmen must consent to receive such wages as are paid to the pauper labor of other lands or the shops must shut up. All this if the bill should become a law.

The Difference.

Baltimore American (Rep.).

One difference between a Republican tariff bill and a Democratic tariff bill is that the first creates confidence while the second breeds distrust and demoralizes the markets. By their fruits they are to be judged.

A Response With a Vengeance.

New York World (Dem.).

The Democratic administration and the Democratic majorities in the two houses of Congress were chosen to give relief from the high taxation imposed by the McKinley act, and this bill is a response to the country's desire.

Cold Sarcasm.

New York Evening Post (Mag.).

The Wilson tariff bill has caused a decline of a few points on the stock market in the group known as the industrials, and the glooms from that quarter are quite shocking to hear.

Hood's and Only Hood's.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is carefully prepared from sarsaparilla, dandelion, mandrake, dock, pipsissewa, juniper berries and other well known remedies, by a peculiar combination, proportion and process, giving to Hood's Sarsaparilla curative powers not possessed by other medicines. It effects remarkable cures when other preparations fail.

Hood's PILLS cure biliousness.

A Favorite in Kentucky.

Mr. W. M. Torrey, who has been in the drug business at Elkton, Ky., for the past twelve years, says: "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy gives better satisfaction than any other cough medicine I ever sold." There is good reason for this. No other will cure a cold so quickly; no other is so certain a preventive and cure for croup; no other affords so much relief in cases of whooping cough. ### OUR POETS.

Powerful Words and Noble Thoughts.

How Closely are they Related to Our Daily Lives.

What One of Our Foremost Ladies Thinks About It.

Henry W. Longfellow has said in one of his most popular poems that "All things come round to him who will but wait."

How true it certainly is that if we have but the patience to wait and struggle for that which we so much desire, the prize will surely be ours. It is not enough, however, to sit quietly down and remain inert, but if we would accomplish great results we must possess untiring perseverance.

At least one person appreciates the full significance of the great man's words. Miss S. Cohen, of 551 South Sixth street, Camden, N. J., has for months been waiting, longing and striving to regain that health without which life is at best but a dreary existence.

She has been constantly treating with different remedies and physicians, but never once lost courage, for she had made up her mind that there was a remedy which would cure her, and was determined to find it. She succeeded so well and is so filled with gratitude and thankfulness that she wishes the whole world could know of her wonderful cure.

The following is a letter written by her for the public benefit:

"I suffered for over a year with severe pains in my head and could not keep anything on my stomach. I was so nervous and weak that I could not hold a glass in my hand, and the doctors pronounced it nervous prostration. I changed doctors and found no relief. My friends advised me to try Dr. Greene's Nervum blood and nerve remedy, and after using four bottles I experienced a great change. I am now entirely cured and am anxious to recommend this valuable medicine to everyone suffering from similar complaints. I hope it will do as much good to others as it has to me."

What more beautiful interpretation of our beloved poet's remark, than to be suddenly restored, after long suffering from pain, to a life of happiness and usefulness.

Have not all cause to thank Dr. Greene, who gave to the world this fountain of hope and health?

Why indeed should we suffer with such a remedy at our command?

If you are sick with any form of nervous or blood disease, indigestion, dyspepsia, kidney or liver complaint, take this giver of health, Dr. Greene's Nervum blood and nerve remedy. Take it when the first symptoms appear. If the disease is advanced delay no longer. It is purely vegetable and harmless. It is not a patent medicine, but one which the doctor has employed in his practice for years.

Dr. Greene, of 35 W. 11th street, New York, is one of our most eminent physicians in the treatment of all nervous and chronic diseases. He is pleased to talk with any who wish to consult him.

If you live out of the city and cannot call, write him a description of your complaint and he will return an answer free of charge, advising you just what to do to get well.
